Abstract:

We aim to describe recent theory of long-crested water waves that includes certain types of ocean waves and bore propagation on rivers. Local well-posedness theory is supplemented with theory that applies on the long time scales where nonlinear and dispersion can act in a non-trivial way. The theory features non-homogeneous boundary conditions that are part of the solution.