Title: Trends and Expectations on the Job Market

Abstract:

You're pretty sure that you're going to graduate. What next? I'll cover the materials that math Ph.D.s will need, the resources at Notre Dame available to help you, and the basic timeline to expect (both before applying and down the road). This talk is intended for anybody interested in what is involved in the job search, whether you haven't thought about it until now, or you are getting ready to apply soon. I'll talk about both academia and industry. If you haven't been to the professional development seminar before - here is a great place to start.
